Tenaga Nasional (TNB MK, BUY, TP: MYR12)

Strong OCF recovery; Keep BUY

Results Review

BUY, TP drops to MYR12 from MYR12.40, 20% upside with c.5% FY24F yield. Tenaga Nasional's 1H23 core profit missed expectations, being dragged by negative fuel margins and weaker JV & associate contributions. Operating cash flow continued to strengthen (+1.7x) to MYR11.9bn in 2Q23, lowering its net gearing to 0.72x from 0.83x in 1Q23. We believe TNB is a key National Energy Transition Roadmap beneficiary, largely from the potential earnings upside from higher transmission & distribution assets and a potential strong ramp-up in the domestic renewable energy presence.

IHH Healthcare (IHH MK)	IHH Healthcare has upped its stake in Ravindranath GE Medical Associates (RGE) to 98.17% from 73.64% after acquiring the latter's shares for a cash consideration of INR7,400m (MYR415m). IHH has also entered into ancillary transactions with Dr Ravi Group. First, IHH through GDPL will acquire a 0.32% stake in Global Clinical Research Services (GCRS) from Dr Ravindranath's wife Adilakshmi for a cash consideration of INR72,000 (MYR4,000). The remaining 99.68% stake in GCRS is currently held by RGE. Second, IHH said RGE will purchase a parcel of land and an existing building in Chennai, India, for INR305.5m (MYR17.1m) that is owned by Prathyusha, Dr Ravindranath's daughter-in-law. The building is currently used for RGE's hospital operations. (The Edge)	The acquisition of the additional 24.53% stake in RGE demonstrates IHH's commitment to strengthen and expand its footing in India's healthcare sector. RGE accounted for 15% of IHH's India revenue or 3.2% at the group level; whereas it contributed estimated EBITDA of MYR63.8m (c.11% 2022 EBITDA margin) or 1.6% at the group level in FY22. The agreed-upon pricetag of MYR415m implies 16x 2022 EBITDA, which is higher than IHH's 2022 EV/EBITDA of 14x (based on last Friday's closing price). Nevertheless, management is of the view that it can consider to merge RGE into Fortis to further improve its operating efficiency (RGE's current BOR 55% vs India's BOR of 71%). All in, we are neutral on the deal, given the minimal earnings impact coupled with the pricey valuation. We still like IHH as: i) The group continues to show resilience in passing on costs (not at the expense of sacrificing patients volume under its Turkey segment), ii) its higher revenue exposure towards the health tourism segment could bring about further upside as foreign patients return to Malaysia for treatment, and iii) its reputation and regional footprint offer investors exposure to the rapid growth of the healthcare industry in ASEAN. We maintain our call and TP on IHH.	BUY, TP: MYR6.80

STOCK/SECTOR	NEWS	COMMENT	RATING
Malaysia Airports (MAHB MK)	Malaysia Airports achieved another milestone in July, registering all-new highs in overall passenger movements with more than 11m passengers. Passenger traffic at MAHB's Malaysia and Turkey airports clocked 7.4m and 3.7m passenger movements. Both its international and domestic passenger movements for its network of airports recorded the highest passenger volumes for the year, with 5.4m and 5.7m passengers, reaching 89% and 87% over Jul 2019 levels. (Bursa Malaysia)	Passenger movements in Malaysia continued to recover, reaching new highs for both international (3.5m) and domestic (3.9m) passenger movements, indicating a recovery rate of 75% and 85% when compared to Jul 2019. YTD total passengers going through its Malaysia airports amounted to 46.2m, or 46.3% of our full-year forecast, which we deem as in line, as travel restrictions of other countries – especially China (it is not a neighbour) – were only starting to ease gradually from early this year. While Malaysia's traffic is still gradually recovering, July's traffic has signaled a strong and encouraging start – so we reiterate our view on a stronger tourism recovery benefiting its Malaysia operations in 2H23 – buoyed by the resumption of airline services and in tandem with the peak travelling season. Istanbul Sabiha Gökçen International Airport continued to sustain its traffic momentum – surpassing the pre-pandemic level for three consecutive months. Turkey's international passenger movements stood at 1.9m (136% of 2019 level), driven by the surge in summer travel holidays. This brings Turkey's YTD total passenger to 20.9m, at 55.5% of our full-year forecast. We expect passenger traffic in Turkey to surpass our full-year estimates should this momentum continue, in view of the strong year-end seasonality and upcoming new airlines/routes to be launched in 2H23 and 1H24. We maintain our call and TP on MAHB.	BUY, TP: MYR8.31
