- Maintain BUY and IDR1,900 TP, 70% upside with c.6% FY24F yield. After updating our ESG scoresheet for the energy sector stocks under our coverage, we maintain Medco Energi Internasional's ESG score at 2.8. Despite being the largest carbon-emitting company under our coverage, MEDC's commitment to ESG is improving. The impressive increase of the RE portion of MEDC's energy consumption to 60% in 2023, along with a clear ESG plan focused on reducing carbon emissions through three main pillars, forms the basis for maintaining the company's ESG score.
- The positives. Despite operating in the upstream segment, MEDC has made notable efforts to mitigate carbon emissions in its business-as-usual (BAU) operations. The renewable energy (RE) contribution to Medco Power's revenue increased significantly, from just 4% in 2022 to 60% in 2023. We acknowledge MEDC's efforts by maintaining its ESG score at 2.8. However, we have not revised the score yet, as upstream carbon emissions remained flat YoY in 2023.
- Areas for improvement. Accelerating the renewable portion of power and energy consumption is crucial to minimising carbon emissions going forward, especially with additional output expected to come on-stream. Both organic and inorganic expansion, along with internal ESG initiatives, are critical to keeping MEDC aligned with its Medco Energi Sustainability Roadmap 2023-2027.
- We maintain MEDC's ESG score at 2.8, resulting in no changes to our TP of IDR1,900. The higher RE footprint, along with a clear long-term plan to reduce carbon emissions, underpins our decision to keep the ESG score as is.
- New projects coming on-stream in 2H24. Three new projects scheduled to go on-stream in 2H24 should offset the natural decline in output from the Corridor block. The first project, the optimisation of the Dayung facility, is expected to increase gas distribution volume to 33mmscf/d from 28mmscf/d. The second project, West Belut in Natuna, has a gas production capacity of 55mmscf/d. The third project, Forel Bronang in Natuna, is producing 10,000bpd of oil and 43mmscf/d of gas. Additionally, increased production from Amman Mineral Internasional (AMMN IJ, NR) should support MEDC's profitability.

Overall ESG Score: 2.8 (out of 4)

E: GOOD

MEDC has implemented measures to reduce GHG emissions and improve energy efficiency. Emission reduction was achieved through optimising fuel gas consumption and transportation fuel. It also made effort to avoid flaring by utilising associated gas that otherwise would be flared. Long-term ESG plans also include enlarging its RE portfolio ie PV Solar and geothermal for MPI.

S: GOOD

MEDC is consistently active in local community empowerment initiatives in the areas where it operates. These entail strengthening engagement, enhancing livelihoods and creating self-reliant and resilient communities. The company has a routine CSR programme that promotes activities such as organic farming, entrepreneurship training, and marine conservation.

G: GOOD

The company has several key initiatives that are focused on good corporate governance issues that include training on business ethics, fraud risks, human rights, anti-bribery and corruption. Shareholder engagement is also quite active and transparent. However, note that its timely financial statement reporting needs further improvement.

Emissions And ESG

Trend analysis

MEDC has incorporated additional emissions data in its reporting following the acquisition of a new block asset (the Corridor Block), which resulted in a change in its emission trends in 2022-2023. That said, the company has also widened the conservation area for biodiversity within its operations.
